

Transition Town Wimborne

Climate Change, Peak Oil and a sustainable future for our children are important issues.

The transition to a low energy future is starting now. The supply of liquid fuel will soon decline, and mitigating the effects of a changing climate is urgent.

Many aspects of life in Wimborne will change. The good news? It is going to be fun. As a community we can prepare now, building resilience to very high fuel prices, and adapting our lifestyles to climate change. With a positive vision of a low energy future everyone can take practical action to create more self-reliant lives.

A Transition Towns initiative is a new and exciting way for a local community to engage with these issues. Other towns in Dorset and across the UK have established theirs in order to work together in addressing this big question: Starting now, how can we sustain our local community and thrive during the next few decades?

First Meeting: 7:30pm Thursday 9th July
CLaRC, King Street, Wimborne
